1. At a meeting of students' delegates of Halle University it was announced that in view of increased requirements for specialists in the fields of aerodynamics, ballistics, and explosives a total of about 600 new students would be admitted for the study of these subjects.
2. On occasion of a conference of delegates of the science faculty of Halle University it was announced that during the next weeks students would have to sign the following statement: "In view of the danger threatening Socialist achievements because of Imperialists, I solemnly promise to serve in the National Armed Forces of the German Democratic Republic to the best of my ability in the event of an aggression."
3. All group secretaries were bound to conduct an active propaganda among students in order to promote the signing of this declaration. They were to report on the attitude of each individual student in this matter.
